The Networks – On the Air expansion Print and Play

These are the Print and Play files for The Networks: On the Air, an expansion for The Networks.

You will need the Print and Play for The Networks in order to play this expansion. We do not recommend using this expansion with the published game, because you will want the card quality from both sets to match.

This Print and Play contains the following files:

- Cards Back.pdf – The backs of all cards in the game.
- Cards Front.pdf – The front of all cards in the game.
- Readme.pdf – This file.

You can find clarifications on how these cards work in the base game's rulebook.

How to assemble the Print and Play

Cards Front.pdf

These are the fronts to all cards in the game. You must print this file in order to play the game.

- Page 1 – New Shows. Note that these Shows are all Season 4-5.
- Pages 1-2 – New Stars.
- Pages 2-3 – New Network Cards.
- Page 3 – New Ads.
- Pages 3-4 – Blank Shows. Note that these Shows are all Season 2-3.

Cards Back.pdf

You don't need to print this file to play the game. But there are enough different types cards in the game that printing out this file is a good idea; otherwise, it'll be difficult to set up the game and put them away.

This file is set up to "mirror" the Cards Front.pdf file. That is to say, you should be able to print the Cards Front.pdf file, and then place the same pages into the Manual Feed tray of your printer. Assuming the pages are in the correct order, you should get the backs printed directly on the same cards as the front.

Of course, all printers will have a bit of offset, and you may encounter bits of the card backs appearing on adjacent cards. Another way to handle this without risking as much bleed is to print the card fronts and backs on different pieces of paper, slice them out separately, and then place them all in sleeves. If you do this, you may want to add a playing card in between for thickness; it makes for easier shuffling.
